

You may be eligible for additional retroactive benefits

How to qualify and apply for Mixed Earners Unemployment Compensation

Mixed Earners Unemployment Compensation (MEUC) is a program that could pay you $100 extra for weeks you claimed between Dec. 27, 2020, and Sept. 4, 2021. MEUC is one of several former federal pandemic unemployment programs. The Employment Security Department is implementing MEUC retroactively.

You are considered a mixed earner if you are using both self-employment and employment to apply for unemployment benefits.

To qualify, you must:

- Have had an active unemployment claim between Dec. 27, 2020, and Sept. 4, 2021, that includes weeks from any program except Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA) or Training Benefits (TB).
  - Eligible programs include:
    - State Unemployment Insurance (UI).
    - Extended Benefits (EB).
    - Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation (PEUC).
    - Self-Employment Assistance Program (SEAP).
    - SharedWork.
    - Trade Readjustment Allowances (TRA).
- Have earned at least $5,000 in net self-employment income in the taxable year before you opened a claim for the weeks in the time period listed above.
- Submit documentation verifying the amount of your net self-employment earnings during the taxable year before you opened a claim for the weeks in the time period listed above.
  - Example: Connie filed for unemployment and PEUC during the period between Dec. 27, 2020, and Sept. 4, 2021. She opened her unemployment claim on Nov. 18, 2020. Connie opened her unemployment claim during 2020, so the taxable year for which she needs to submit documentation is 2019.
- Have been eligible for at least $1 in the weeks you claimed during the time period listed above.
