States currently offering a Short-Time Compensation (STC) program

Offers Short-Time Compensation (STC) through Unemployment Compensation (UC) departments.

Top 5 reasons employers sign up:

- 1. Loss of contracts or reduction in work
- 2. Maintain employee morale
- 3. In response to an economic downtown
- 4. Reduce payroll costs
- 5. Reduce cost of hiring and training new employees

SharedWork in Washington

SharedWork is a voluntary employer assistance program that helps to stabilize employers and employees during a temporary economic setback.

- Employers reduce worker hours to save payroll costs, instead of cutting jobs.
- SharedWork pays employees a prorated percentage of unemployment insurance benefits.

"Employers who use this program as an alternative to reducing their workforce are better prepared to gear up quickly when the economy recovers. They are also spared the expense of recruiting, hiring and training new employees."

~ Norward J. Brooks, July 21, 1983

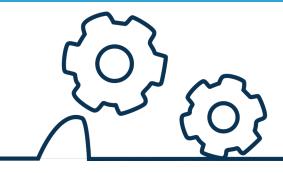

John D. Spellman (1926 – 2018), the 18th governor, serving from 1981 to 1985. He signed the SharedWork bill into law on May 16, 1983.

Norward J. Brooks, the first Black Commissioner at Employment Security Department, served 1974-1977 and 1981-1985.

SharedWork in Washington

In a survey of past employers who enrolled in Washington's SharedWork program:

SharedWork improved employee morale.

The program helped retain skilled workers.

Would recommend SharedWork to another employer.

Employer Requirements for SharedWork:

- 1. Must be a legally registered business in Washington state.
- 2. Must have an Employment Security Department (ESD) number.
- 3. Must have at least two permanent employees, who are not corporate officers, affected by a reduction in hours and wages.
- 4. Continue to provide same benefits to employees.

Employee Requirements for SharedWork:

- 1. All permanent (part-time and full-time) employees may participate in SharedWork.
- 2. Employee must have a valid UI claim worked at least 680 hours during their base year (includes all employment)
- 3. Must be able and available for all scheduled hours by SharedWork employer.

A temporary workforce reduction example

"We are a residential and commercial inspection company. There are less buyers that qualify, and, as a result, less inspections are being scheduled. Business goes down 18% and halts growth in all departments." ~ Ana Ramirez, Boggs Inspection Services, Lacey

Ana's business is experiencing a temporary economic downturn. She employs 8 individuals. Instead of letting go of employees, she enrolls in the SharedWork program and reduces the workweek.

In lieu of layoffs. Ana gets her SharedWork plan approved for fifty-two weeks. There is no cost to enroll, and plans can be renewed year after year.

Reduced workweek. An employer may reduce an employee's usual weekly hours of work from ten to fifty percent and the employee can receive the same percentage of unemployment benefits.

Summary. Employees would each receive wages from their employer, while also remaining eligible for up to 50 percent of their respective weekly benefit amount under SharedWork.

Washington Administrative Code (WAC): Chapter 192-250 Shared Work Program

Enrolling is fast, free and easy!

The employer calls SharedWork at 800-752-2500 option 3 to check business eligibility. The employer assigns a SharedWork representative (or two) and submits an Employer Plan Application and a Participant List. Once the employer plan is approved, each participant submits an Employee Application and can file weekly claims. The employee receives earned wages and a share of unemployment insurance benefits when hours are reduced.

The employer representative checks the weekly SharedWork Payments Report for accuracy.

"Once we signed onboard, employees felt a sense of relief that they didn't have to go look for another job to supplement their income, and they didn't feel that they had to compromise their loyalty and commitment to the company. When they had the hours, they are committed and dedicated, and when they are not, they understand that the work is going to come," said Ramirez.

How much will my employees get paid on SharedWork?

Example using 40-hour chart from the Employee payment calculation chart.

Employee usual work hours are 40 hours per week. The Unemployment Insurance (UI) weekly benefit amount (WBA) is $800 per week, which is how much I would get if I were completely unemployed. I worked 20 hours for my employer. I will receive 50 percent of my WBA. If eligible, my SharedWork benefit payment would be $400.

SharedWork testimonials

From the SharedWork industry panel May 23, 2023

"Before SharedWork some of our employees did leave just knowing that we would have reduced hours. We haven't seen that at all since we started SharedWork, and that was huge for us. We had a meeting to start with SharedWork, and there was some skepticism at first, but once it got going, it's been seamless and they've been so happy, our employees. We have been able to retain everybody through SharedWork, and that has been such a boon for us."

~ Carol Linge, Ed's Economy Roofing, Bush Prairie

"Once everyone got the paperwork done and into the routine of filing claims, it's been easy. They work the hours we have for them, and they do the Sharedwork claim for the difference. It helps stabilize their income. After two years, we added our inventory and service technicians. Six years ago, we added office staff, so now the whole company is on SharedWork. And we love it." ~ Brenda Stutzman, Dayco Heating and Air Conditioning, Kennewick

"It has helped us retain our employees and given us a bit of flexibility. Some weeks a particular department is busier and we need those employees full-time and some weeks it's slower, and they can take a day of workshare. As the business increases again, it's easier to jump back in to fully staffed and up to speed. It's strategic in multiple ways."

~ Michelle Dvorak, Pacific Northwest Title of Kitsap

SharedWork testimonials

From the SharedWork industry panel Feb. 21, 2023

"It has allowed us to maintain our staff count and service levels, while lowering our overhead during the temporary housing shift. Staff is appreciative of the plan option and receiving partial payment with a day out of the office."

~ Erin Crain, AVP/office administrator, Chicago Title of Washington, Everett

"SharedWork has given us a great amount of balance and flexibility to pivot and budget our expenses wisely. It's given the employees a sense of security. They know that we're doing this so that we don't have to take more dramatic measures, so there's massive relief of anxiety in that sense as well."

~ Jen Post, owner, Prestige Escrow, Woodinville

"It's really a good thing we have SharedWork or I could be at risk of losing the employees with whom I've invested thousands of dollars in training. My valued employees are part of our business family, and I don't want to lose them. During these ups and downs of the economy, it has been a lifesaver."

~ Suzette Jackson, VP/owner, NorthWest Granite & Flooring LLC, Whidbey Island
