In fourth quarter 2021, October to December, seasonally adjusted job gains in Washington’s private sector totaled 221,233 while job losses from businesses closing or contracting totaled 143,605. The result of these changes was a net gain of 77,628 jobs during the fourth quarter. These numbers show the key changes in private sector employment, also called Business Employment Dynamics (BED).

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics’ Business Employment Dynamics data series highlights the forces driving labor market dynamics at the state and national levels. Job gains and losses at private business establishments are tracked showing employment changes due to establishment openings or closings versus adding or shedding jobs at existing firms. The most recent BED data cover events through fourth quarter 2021.

Net job gains grew for the state and nation in fourth quarter 2021

Nationally, job gains exceeded job losses in all 50 states for a net private sector employment gain of 2,879,000. The number of jobs gained during the fourth quarter were more than the 1,313,000 jobs gained during the previous quarter, and more than the 893,000 jobs gained over second quarter 2021. Added together, the number of jobs gained in third quarter 2020 through fourth quarter 2021 have recovered roughly 87 percent of the jobs lost during second quarter 2020. Washington state gained 77,628 jobs in fourth quarter 2021. The increase for Washington continues to help offset the sharp downturn from second quarter 2020 when the state lost 346,712 jobs.

Figure 1 depicts the changing business employment dynamic and compares Washington state to national trends. On a national and state basis, net job gains and losses are sensitive to the business cycle. During the 2007 recession, net job losses increased before bottoming out in first quarter 2009. Net job growth resumed in second quarter 2010 and carried through until the next recession, resulting from efforts to reduce the effects of the pandemic. Job growth had begun to pick up in third quarter 2020 for the state and nation, helping to confirm the end of the COVID-19 recession in April.
